INNOVATION, FIN AND INSURTECH

The German Fintech sector is very active and constantly changing. In all German financial centres, Fintechs have expanded the solutions offered by

When it comes to major economic challenges, financing is often a bottleneck, especially for small and medium-sized companies. In times of crisis in particular, liquid funds can be necessary. In order for companies to take advantage of opportunities and invest, many have to strengthen their capital base.

Crises like pandemics and climate change are also financial challenges. Digitization and technological change are accelerating. In order to take advantage of future opportunities, innovation and financing are key. The transformation encompasses regions, industries and companies. Important drivers are improvements in the economic and financial policy framework and the infrastructure, a strengthening of research and innovation funding, an effective use of digitization potential and a climate protection policy that sets

FINANCIAL CENTRES

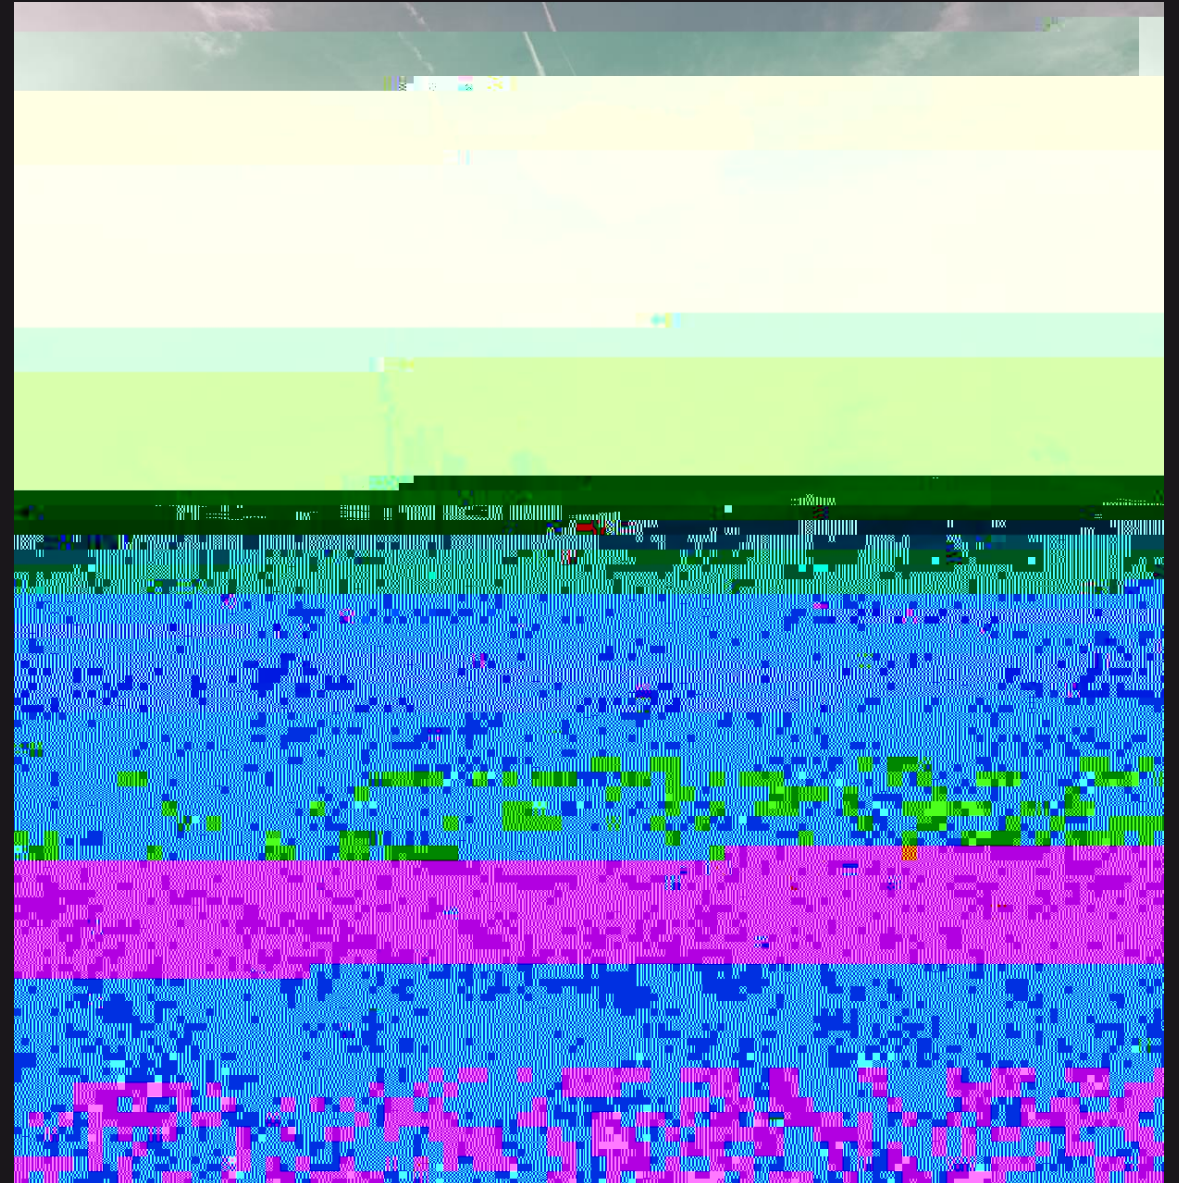

Frankfurt am Main

Frankfurt am Main benefits from its central location and the financial centre Frankfurt is the gateway to the largest European economy. Frankfurt is located in the economically dynamic Rhine-Main region and is home to more than 200 banks, over 80% of which are foreign banks. In the ranking of global financial centers (The Global Financial Centres Index 28), Frankfurt ranks 16th and is one of the leading financial centers in the euro zone.

FRANKFURT MAIN FINANCE

Since 2008, Frankfurt Main Finance has been the financial centre initiative of one of the leading financial centres in Germany and the euro zone. Its 70 members include the State of Hesse, the cities of Frankfurt am Main and Eschborn as well as numerous well-known financial market players and their service providers and private and public universities.

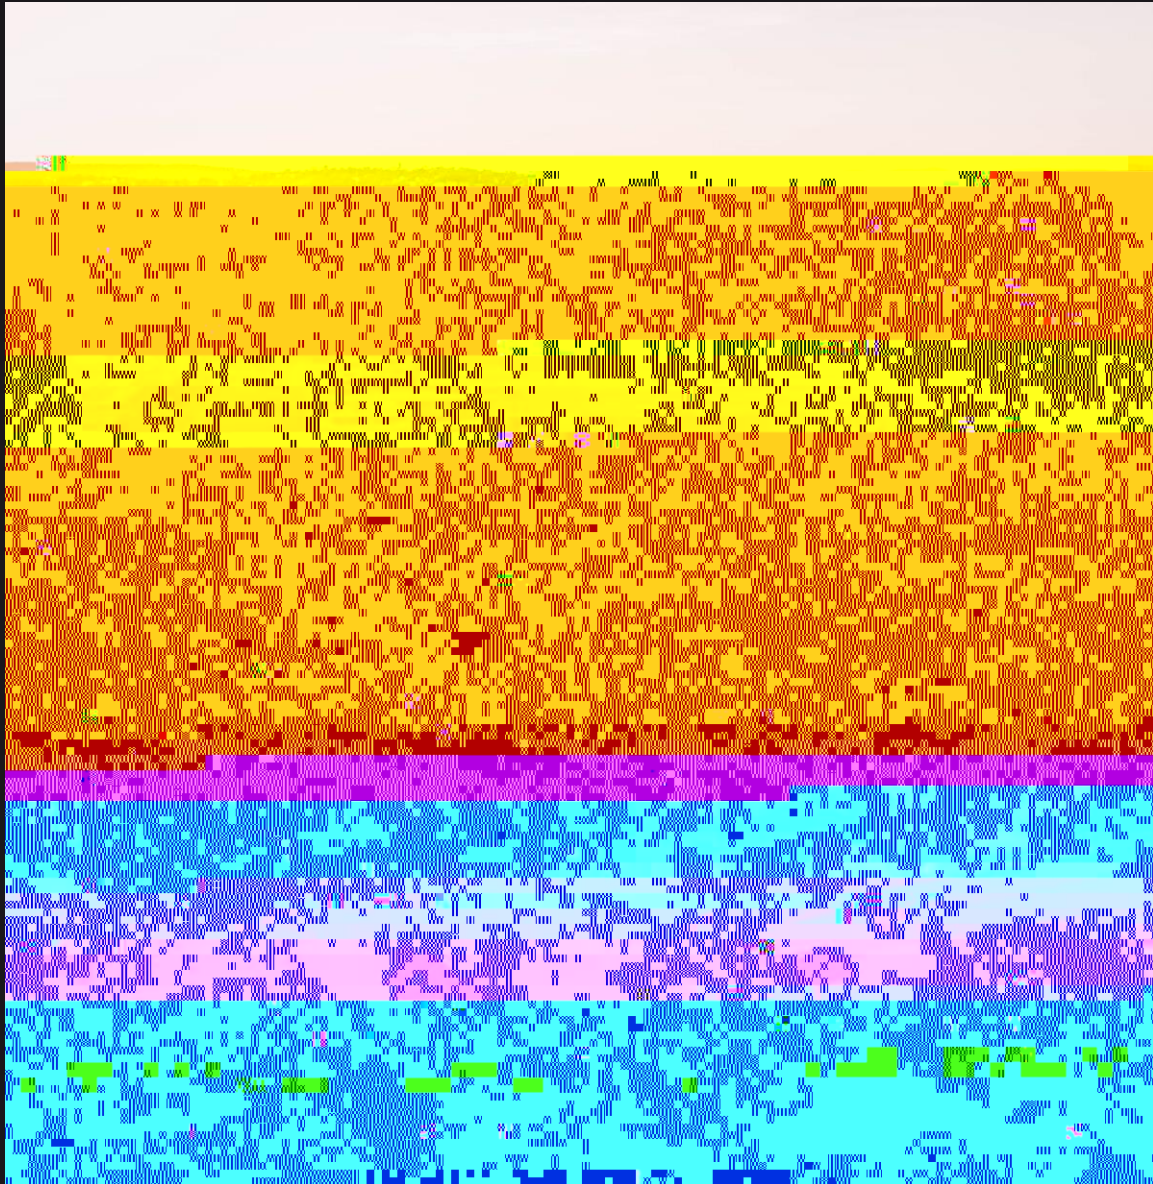

With their membership, they all express their close ties to the financial centre as well as their will to position Frankfurt as a first rate national and international financial centre. Frankfurt Main Finance pools the forces of the players in the financial centre, markets the location and creates top class dialogue platforms.
